Posted by Stephanie Hung

Today's post was written by Kate, an employee who loves folk art and wants to remind you about the amazing Santa Fe International Folk Art Market.

"Now in its 8th year, this year's market will take place July 8-10 on Museum Hill in Santa Fe, New Mexico. This year, more than 150 master folk artists were selected to participate in this colorful, creative event attended by over 22, 000 people. I have seven girlfriends meeting me in Santa Fe this year for a fun weekend. Let me show you this amazing event with the photographs that I took last year. So without having to book an international airplane ticket, you could attend this event and experience multiple cultures and folk art that will be showcased in the largest event of its kind in the world.
